ACT	The Cafeteria Incident

Present: Interviewer (I), Witness (W), a clock that ticks louder than necessary.

I: Where were you at lunch on the day in question?

W: In the cafeteria, eating lunch, which is what the room is for.

I: Did you see anything unusual?

W: No.

I: Anything at all?

W: I saw a tray, a second tray, and [redacted]. Then I looked at my soup for a long time.

I: Why the soup?

W: It was looking back.

I: Let the record show the witness has made an allegation against the soup.

W: I am withdrawing the allegation against the soup.

I: Noted. Interview concluded at 12:41 by mutual agreement and a bell.

Interviewer's note: The witness saw nothing with remarkable consistency. Recommend for promotion to Senior Witness.

* Declassified by the Records Office stapler committee. Redactions are decorative. Any resemblance to an actual cafeteria is coincidental.
